

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

(Monday, March 7, 1927.)

The House met at 9:30 o'clock a. m. and was called to order by Speaker Bobbitt.

COMMUNICATION FROM HON.
JAMES A. REED.

The Speaker laid before the House and had read the following communication from Hon. James A. Reed:

United States Senate,
February 26, 1927.

Hon. Barry Miller, President of the Senate, and Hon. Robert Lee Bobbitt, Speaker, House of Representatives, Austin, Texas.

My Dear Sirs: I am in receipt of the joint resolution passed by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Texas, extending to me an invitation to address a joint session of the Legislature before the end of its present session.

I am deeply sensitive of the honor conferred upon me by your body and have delayed answering your kind invitation in order that I might be able to map a program whereby it would be possible for me to accept.

I regret to say, however, that the legislative situation in the Senate here is in such a state that it is absolutely impossible for me to get away before adjournment on March 4th. After adjournment I must proceed to Detroit and there engage in the trial of a very important lawsuit, which will in all probability continue over a space of six or eight weeks. This case is set for March 7th.

In view of my situation, I am very sorry to say that I must forego the pleasure of accepting your very kind invitation.

Thanking you for the great courtesy extended me, and again regretting my inability to accept, I am,

Very sincerely yours,

JAS. A. REED.

POEMS BY POET-LAUREATE.

On motion of Mr. Lipscomb, the following poems were ordered printed in the Journal:

Men Like Me.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House,
Haven't spoke yet, been quiet as a mouse,
It racks my nerves as you all can see,
Yet every one speaks but men like me.

Feel I can speak till I get on the floor,
Then my thoughts get away and soar
And leave my nerves all shaky you see
Still every one speaks but men like me.

The earth's entwined by the vaulted skys
As everyone knows who hath good eyes
Yet none can tell the troubles I see
'Cause every man speaks, but men like me.

But a speech isn't all a man may do,
He can talk to friends 'till his bill goes through
And is passed on out to the rule of three,
Still everyone talks, but men like me.

He can jolly with others and argue his case

And go rather slow with a smile on his face

And do as much as the man on his heels
Who splits the air with his loud appeals.

And now, dear friends and all classmates,

You butted my goat with laureate
The Fortieth Legislature did this you'll agree

'Cause everyone speaks, but men like
 me.

Trip to Laredo.

The trip to Laredo was a grand success
As everyone knows, I must confess
A bank for money but do not rob it
Our next high chief is Robert Lee Bobbitt.

The Laredo trip is a memory now,
That comes again I know not how—
But memory is not all of life
The future stored with pleasures rife.

But across the border it's a different order,

The narrow street's got everything beat
A mixture of races and the greaser too,
If they don't care then why should you.

No use to multiply this story
I saw Laredo in all her glory—
Laredo! Laredo! I know it's not dirty.
Bobbitt for Governor in nineteen thirty.

Dallas-Fort Worth.

But another trip is now on hand
Up north of here in the blackest land
To get the taxes laid off for awhile,
Reclaiming the land now idle and wild.

But do as you please I don't give a darn,

I'm going to accept like a rat in a barn.
I lived in Dallas in nineteen six
And got myself in a h—l of a fix.

Fort Worth in eighteen eighty-two
Was my home town so I can tell you
And many wild doings—I nearly had fits
In gambling dens to beat six bits.

Reasons for Votes.

We voted against material increase in salary of our judges, not because we do not think salaries should be increased, but we vote "nay":

1. Because no additional revenue has yet been provided to care for the continuous strain on our Treasury.

2. Because general and ad valorem taxes are at the oppression point.

3. Because we do not believe our people want general increases in judiciary at this time, and because we think other industrial and governmental positions, as well as schools and roads, need increase more than does our judiciary.

WOODALL,
GILBERT.

READING.

The Speaker laid before the House, on its second reading and passage to third reading,

S. B. No. 7, A bill to be entitled "An Act to amend Article 1855 of the Revised Civil Statutes, 1925, so as to require Court of Civil Appeals to certify to the Supreme Court any question of law involved in a decision of the Court of Civil Appeals in any case which conflicts with an opinion rendered by the Supreme Court or by some other Court of Civil Appeals of this State, and any question of law involved in any case before the Court of Civil Appeals of which the court has final jurisdiction, which is important to the jurisprudence of the State and which has not been previously decided by the Supreme Court, and to authorize the Supreme Court to issue writs of mandamus to compel the certification of such question; and to repeal subdivision 6, of Article 1728, Revised Statutes, 1925, giving the Supreme Court jurisdiction of such questions by writ of error, and declaring an emergency."

The bill was read second time.

Mr. Rawlins offered the following amendment to the bill:

Amend Senate bill No. 7 by striking out all after the enacting clause, except Section 2, and substituting in lieu thereof the following:

Section 1. That Article 1728 of the Revised Civil Statutes of 1925 be and is hereby amended so that hereafter it shall read as follows:

Article 1728. The Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction co-extensive with the limits of the State, extending to all questions of law arising in the following cases when same have been brought to the Courts of Civil Appeals from final judgment of trial courts:

1. Those in which the judges of the Courts of Civil Appeals may disagree upon any question of law material to the decision.

2. Those in which one of the Courts of Civil Appeals holds differently from a prior decision of its own, or of another Court of Civil Appeals, or of the Supreme Court upon any such question of law.

3. Those involving the construction or validity of statutes.

4. Those involving the revenues of the State.

5. Those in which the Railroad Commission is a party.

6. Those in which, in the opinion of the Supreme Court, the Court of Civil Appeals has erroneously declared the substantive law of the case, in which case the Supreme Court shall take jurisdiction for the purpose of correcting such error.

The amendment was adopted.
